

Curiosity ping pong

This activity aims to help team members dig a little deeper. As adults, we so often fail to ask questions about our colleagues and as such, do not really know or understand each other. Fostering a curious environment creates this connection.

HOW TO USE CURIOSITY PING PONG

- A nominated person or leader should select a question from the next page and pose it to the group.
- Participants should take turns answering (if face-to-face) or pop it in the chat (if virtual).
- If meeting face-to-face, encourage other team members to ask follow-up questions.
- If virtual, ask participants to select one answer from the chat and then unmute and ask a follow up question.
- Ideally, everyone should answer and ask a follow up question.

Curiosity ping pong

What is one of your favourite topics of conversation?

What has been your greatest accomplishment so far?

What is one thing or situation that scares you?

What is the most beautiful sound in the world?

What has been the highlight of your week so far?

What are you grateful for?

What is a talent or skill you have always wanted? Why?

What is an idea you strongly believe in?

What is something you do differently than most people?

What is the strangest food you have ever tried?

What is one thing life is teaching you right now?

How would you like to be remembered?

How will you spend your time at the next travel location?

What is one moment in time you will never forget?

What are your hopes for what the future holds for you?

What is something funny that has happened to you?

What is a goal you plan on accomplishing this year?

What is something that amazes you?

How did you learn your most important lesson in life?

What is difficult for you now. But was easy as a child?